Louis Wolfson Faces Prison

Big-Time Financier Guilty In Stock Plot

NEW YORK (AP) Louis E. Wolfson, whose financial dealings dazzled Wall Street in the 1950's and three associates have been found guilty of violating the Securities and Exchange Commission Act.

The 55-year-old multimillionaire financier was convicted by a federal jury Thursday on charges of perjury, subordination of justice, concealing documents and filing false statements with the SEC.

Wolfson, chairman of Merritt-Chapman and Scott, a worldwide construction-shipping-chemicals firm now in liquidation, faces up to 14 years in prison and a $32,000 fine.

Convicted with him were Elkin B. Gerbert of Jacksonville, Fla., a Merritt-Chapman director; Marshall G. Staub of New York, president of the company; and Joseph Kosow, whose Boston financing firm was acquired by Merritt-Chapman in 1962.

The verdict was delivered by a jury of nine men and three women on government charges that the four defendants conspired to enter into a secret agreement whereby Kosow bought Merritt-Chapman stock on the open market, then sold it back to the corporation later at "an agreed price well above the market price at the time of the agreement."

The government claimed the participants in the deal made a $4 million profit. The alleged agreements were uncovered during an SEC investigation of the behavior of Merritt-Chapman stock, the government said.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said that during the SEC inquiry of Merritt-Chapman's "buy-in" program the defendants agreed among themselves to destroy documents, commit perjury and suborn the perjury of other witnesses.

Early in the eight-week trial, U.S. District Judge Edmund L.

LOUIS WOLFSON

Palmieri dropped fraud and stock manipulation charges contained in the original indictment. He directed the jury Wednesday to deliberate only the alleged coverup, cautioning "this is not a stock fraud trial."

The panel found the defendants guilty of various maneuvers, including perjury conspiracy, to cover up the stock deal during the SEC probe. Wolfson and Gerbert were found guilty of actual perjury and the filing of false company reports in 1962 and 1963. Staub was also convicted of making false statements in Merritt-Chapman annual reports.

The defendants' lawyers moved immediately to appeal the verdicts.

Says Future Of World At Stake

Agnew Also Addresses Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Highlights of the acceptance speech of Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon:

The choice we make in 1968 will determine not only the future of America but the future of peace and freedom of the world for the last third of the Twentieth Century.

America is in trouble today not because her people have failed but because her leaders have failed.

What America needs are leaders to match the greatness of her people.

When the strongest nation in the world can be tied down for four years by a war in Vietnam with no end in sight;

When the richest nation in the world can't manage its own economy;

When the nation with the greatest tradition of the rule of law is plagued by unprecedented lawlessness;

When the president of the United States cannot travel abroad or to any major city at home without fear of a hostile demonstration—then it is time for new leadership in America.

VIETNAM WAR
We shall begin with Vietnam. We hope there is a chance that current negotiations may bring an honorable end to the war. We will say nothing during this campaign that might destroy that chance.

If the war is not ended when the people choose in November, the choice will be clear.

The first priority foreign policy objective of our next administration will be to bring an honorable end to the war in Vietnam. We shall not stop there—we need a policy to prevent more Vietnams.

To the leaders of the Communist world, we say: After an era of confrontation, the time has come for an era of negotiation.

We believe deeply in our ideas, but we believe they should travel on their own power and not the power of our arms.

RELATIONS WITH REDS
We extend the hand of friendship to the Russian people, and to the Chinese people, and to all peoples in the world.

We have worked toward the goal of an open world—open skies, open cities, open hearts, open minds.

Today, too often, America is an example to be avoided and not followed. A nation that can't keep the peace at home won't be trusted to keep the peace abroad.

If we are to restore order and respect for law in this country there is one place to begin. We are going to have a new attorney general of the United States.

To those who say law and order is the code word for racism, this is our reply: Our goal is justice for every American.

Just as we cannot have progress without order; we cannot have order without progress. As we commit to order, let us commit to progress.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE
Private enterprise, far more effectively than the government, can provide the jobs, train the unemployed, build the homes, offer the new opportunities which will produce progress—not promises—in solving the problems of America.

Black Americans don't want more government programs which perpetuate dependency. They don't want to be a colony in a nation.

For most of us the American

Revolt Against Agnew Fizzles At GOP National Convention

LAUGHING MATTER: Gov. George Romney of Michigan throws his head back and laughs as he hears a vote cast for him at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach where he was nominated Thursday night as the party's vice presidential candidate. ## Michigan GOP Tells Doubts

U.S. Ticket Called Weak; Rough Fight Seen

By JAMES PHILLIPS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. George Romney, who withdrew from the Republican presidential race and was defeated in a bid for the vice presidential nomination, returns Saturday to fight for a Republican victory in Michigan in November. He said it will be an uphill battle.

"I will make good on the commitment to go home to Michigan and do the best we can to achieve national, state and local victories this fall," Romney said after losing a bid to be the running mate of GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

But Romney and many Michigan delegates to convene were concerned about the drawing power of Nixon and vice presidential nominee Spiro T. Agnew.

SEES DEFEAT
"I think we have a ticket that will lose in Michigan," said James Gilmore Jr. of Kalamazoo. "I would guess that we would lose four congressional seats and the state legislature."

"We'll have a difficult battle in Michigan," Romney said. "I think it's possible to win there but we're going to have a real tough job in Michigan."

Similar comment came from other state party leaders. "I think definitely it will require an all out effort," said Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood.

National committeeman John Martin said, "I think Nixon will do a Nixon job of campaigning and can be elected in Michigan."

Discontent with the Republican ticket emerged among Michigan delegates after Nixon named Agnew as his choice for a running mate.

"They would have preferred Lindsay, Hatfield or Romney on the basis that it would have been a stronger ticket in Michigan," said Sen. Robert P. Griffin. R-Mich. He referred to New York Mayor John V. Lindsay and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon.

The delegation cheered when Nevada state GOP chairman George Abbot unexpectedly placed Romney's name in nomination for the vice presidential spot.

But the delegation's hopes faded as Romney received only 191 votes in the balloting. A total of 667 were needed to win.

PRAISES NIXON
Romney called the nomination of Nixon "the greatest political comeback in this century."

"It didn't just happen," Romney said. "To overcome adversity he had to have faith. And to overcome the skepticism of others he had to have tenacity, resilience and resourcefulness. He conducted a politically effective and successful campaign for the nomination."

Romney, who has been a presidential or vice presidential contender for several years, summed up his feelings about his campaign experiences several hours before he was unexpectedly

Romney Loses Bid For Veep

Some Liberals Unhappy With Maryland Governor

By JACK BELL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The 29th Republican National Convention, brushing aside a disgruntled minority, has sent Richard M. Nixon off on a November election crusade aimed at putting new leadership in the White House.

A step behind him marched Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, Nixon's hand-picked selection for his running mate. Agnew's nomination provided the GOP delegates with about their only opportunity before adjournment Thursday night to register individual protest against Nixon's tight control over the convention.

The fact that 205 of the convention's 1,333 delegates were willing to go on the record in opposition to Nixon's personal choice for his No. 2 man cast doubt on the nominee's claim in his acceptance speech that the GOP "stands united before the nation tonight."

CONVENTION VOTE

With some of the party liberals participating in what had the earmarks of a spontaneous revolt, Agnew polled 1,128 votes and Gov. George Romney of Michigan 178. Another 12 were scattered among other quickie candidates with 15 abstentions.

There was never any question about the convention's acceptance of Nixon's surprising choice of Agnew, barely known nationally except for his law-and-order stand and his tough lecturing of Negro leaders.

But the sour reaction of party liberals or moderates as some of them prefer to be called — was reflected in the scattered voting against Agnew.

Had not Gove. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Nixon's major challenger for the top nomination, and James A. Rhodes of Ohio, a holdout against Nixon's nomination, ordered their delegations to stay in line for Agnew there might have been an even larger protest.

NIXON CHEERED

Nixon got a five-minute ovation before he could start his acceptance speech. He was interrupted frequently with applause as he asserted in the course of his speech that "this time we're going to win."

The nominee, preparing to depart for Mission Bay, Calif., for a rest and strategy sessions, also nailed down his control of party machinery.

He gave the signal for the reelection of Ray C. Bliss as national chairman. Bliss declined comment, but there seemed little doubt he would be re-elected.

Cash Register Looted At Tosi's Restaurant

A total of $2,749.54 was taken from a cash register in Tosi's restaurant, Ridge road, Stevensville, owner Emil Tosi reported to Berrien county sheriff detectives yesterday.

Detectives said the cash register apparently had been lowered out of a restroom window and was found in a vacant lot across the street from the restaurant. The cash register had been forced open.

There was no force of entry from the outside, detectives said. It appeared someone remained in the building or unlocked the window before the restaurant was closed.

The loot included approximately $250 in checks and the remainder in cash.

Doctors Rule On Transplants

Donor Must Be Dead Before Operation Is Begun

By Associated Press

The World Medical Assembly adopted a code today specifying that two doctors must pronounce the donor dead before a heart transplant or other such surgery is performed.

The assembly of 150 doctors from 63 countries adopted a "statement of death" which now becomes part of the ethics of the medical profession. But it made no attempt to give a definition of death.

"With scientific advances and new methods of resuscitation always coming up, it would be silly of us to give a definition which could be outmoded within half an hour," said Sir Leonard Mallen, president of the association.

The statement did give certain guidelines for doctors determining death.

DEATH IS GRADUAL
It said death is a gradual process, its progress depending on the varying ability of tissues to live without oxygen.

"But clinical interest lies not in the state of preservation of isolated cells but in the fate of a person," the statement continued. "Here the point of death of different cells and organs is not so important as the certainty that the process has become irreversible by whatever techniques of resuscitation that may be employed."

Determination of death, the statement continued, "will be based on clinical judgment supplemented if necessary by a number of diagnostic aids, of which the electroencephalograph (to measure brain waves) is currently the most helpful."

"However, no single technological criterion is entirely satisfactory in the present state of medicine nor can any one technological procedure be substituted for the over-all judgment of the physician."

Japan's first heart transplant, performed Thursday, brought a call from Health Minister Sunao Sonoda for a law governing transfer of human organs. The Japanese Cabinet approved Sonoda's proposal for a commission to study enactment of such a law, including a definition of death, prevention of traffic in human organs and qualifications of doctors to perform transplants.

Man, 75, Is Robbed Of $800

May Be Linked To Auto Theft Attempt

Benton Harbor police said today there could be a connection between an $800 robbery in downtown Benton Harbor shortly after midnight and an attempted auto theft several blocks away.

Police said the auto theft was reported two minutes after Fred Crowhurst, 75, reported he had been robbed of $800 in cash and checks in front of the YMCA, 233 Michigan street. Crowhurst resides at the YMCA.

Two Negro men in their early 20s were involved in both reports, police said. Crowhurst said two men grabbed him by the arms and throat and reached into his left trouser pocket to grab the money.

Minutes later, at 12:19 a.m., a woman reported that a car struck trash cans, a parked auto and ran into a utility pole guy wire in an alley near Pipestone street and Britain avenue. Two Negroes then fled on foot.

SHOT AT INKSTER

Murdered Detective Well-Known In Area

Robert Gonser, state police detective who was shot and killed early Thursday at Inkster, was served formerly as a trooper at the Grand Haven post and served police departments throughout western Michigan as a skin diver.

Gonser, 34, was stationed in Grand Haven five years. Last December he was promoted to detective and assigned to the intelligence division at Detroit. Gonser assisted various police departments in searches for submerged objects.

He was shot after two Inkster police officers had been wounded as gunfire broke out in the Detroit suburb. A 14-year-old boy was later shot and killed by police.

Funeral services for Gonser will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in Grand Haven.

Johnson Wins A

Face Saver On Steel

Price Rollback

Six years ago John F. Kennedy introduced an experiment in government control on the wage-price spiral which has been corroding the American economy for 20 years.

The attitudes of the steel-makers and the United Steel Workers Union in 1962 indicated a strike might be the only result from their upcoming contract discussions.

Kennedy induced both parties to accept his Secretary of Labor, Arthur J. Goldberg, as the arbitrator for a new contract, with his judgment replacing what the two antagonists might or might not be able to agree upon.

A compelling reason for the maneuver was that an agreement in steel sets the pace in other metal working industries and in other industrial areas as well.

Kennedy viewed the already frozen position between the steel producers and the USW as leading to an uncomfortable choice of a crippling strike or a settlement beyond justification and providing the example for others to follow suit.

Goldberg arranged what the White House proudly advertised as a non-inflationary pact.

The agreement established a liberal fringe benefit package, specially on pensions, and put next to nothing in the workers' pay envelopes.

In the sense that the USW members received no ready money to spend, the White House statement was correct.

It skimmed over, however, the fact that the cost of the new contract had to come from the steel producers.

U.S. Steel, followed within hours by other producers, reacted by raising their selling prices across the board.

Kennedy went into a towering

Higher Than Ever

June's whopping rise in the consumer price index of 0.5 percent emphasizes the continuance of inflationary pressures. On an annual basis, June's rise was 6 percent, considerably above the 4 percent generally regarded as a heavy drain on the economy.

A major factor in the index's jump was the rise in mortgage interest costs, an element of tight money. Home owners not burdened by mortgages felt the price pressure because of soaring local taxes, higher insurance rates and mounting repair and decorating charges.

There was, nevertheless, some consolation in the fact that while the cost of service generally rose, that for medical care has at last slowed its upward push. Ever since Medicare went into effect in 1966, the price of health care has been prominent among the forces pushing up the cost of living.

Although the government has predicted a smaller rise by the consumer index in July, this is certain to be offset by the effects of the wage-price increase in steel. Resulting price increases on many items will cost American consumers an estimated $500 million a year.

Republicans who have mentioned the possibility of inflation as a major issue in the presidential campaign have been reinforced by the steep rise in the consumer price index and taxes.

Inflation is difficult even for economists to explain. For Democratic candidates it could be a disaster.

rage, accusing the companies of reneging on a commitment to Goldberg that they would not raise prices beyond any wage increase that would be granted.

The companies denied the assertion and the record is still unclear as to what may have been said or implied.

The merits of that argument aside, Kennedy ordered his brother, Bobby, then Attorney General, to begin anti-trust suits. He halted all government purchasing of domestic steel in favor of imported stocks. He promised to lift import quotas under an optional authority given by Congress in its then most recent tariff legislation.

Inland Steel, whose top management was personally friendly with Kennedy, refused to join in the price boosting.

This withholding by a major producer as much as the Kennedy temper caused the other producers to cancel the increases.

This public retreat by the steelmakers lifted Kennedy's political prestige. It wiped out the setback he sustained in the preceding year when Castro cemented his Commie beachhead 90 miles off the Florida coast.

A few months later, once this cloudburst had evaporated, the steel makers quietly inserted selective price increases and by 1963 were charging on their products what Kennedy decried as atrocious a few months before.

This week's partial rollback of a five per cent across the board increase posted last week by all producers, Inland included, is a variation on the theme of two so called opponents reaching agreement by degrees and in a pale moonlight rather than in the noon's sunlight.

U.S. Steel led off as before with the five per cent posting.

The parade was completely formed up in a day.

LBJ did not roar.

All he said for publication was that he was personally ordering all government procurement officers to insist upon competitive bids. The order is broad enough to let in the German and Japanese producers or even those from the Iron Curtain.

The order adds nothing to what the law already requires of government purchasing agents, but LBJ's intonation can make the commonplace sound as if those Flying Saucer men were coming in.

Privately, his upper echelon people started to badger the steel executives with the persistence of the old time circuit riding minister preaching a hellfire and brimstone lesson to his audience.

Then to sweeten the pill, LBJ says selective increases are acceptable in his sight.

According to the Wall Street Journal, U.S. Steel caught the message in reasonably good spirits.

It is raising from four to six per cent on a variety of products and not changing prices on others which are not a principal part of its total production.

The announced effect of this process is a 2 1/2 per cent average increase.

Other producers are expected to follow this formula or some adaptation of it.

On the face of it, LBJ has scored a victory which Humphrey, or McCarthy, or whomever the Democratic nominee for President will be, can fit into his campaign oratory this fall; the steel producers won't have to swallow all of the latest contract cost with the USW; and the public will not be gouged by price changes filtered into the end products it buys at retail.

There is also said to be a commitment to LBJ by the steelmen that they won't post further changes in the balance of this year.

Business conditions in the months ahead will furnish the test of this maneuvering.

At the moment this Hollywood touch by LBJ is a campaign stratagem strictly for voter consumption.

No one really can say if the increase can be held, whether it is a 2 1/2 per cent average, or whether it may work out higher even before November's counting of the ballots.

HENRY CATHCART

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward (Ted) Kennedy, of Massachusetts, the youngest and only remaining Kennedy brother, is considered by the public as the defacto head of that extraordinary family and only in a minor way a national political figure.

To Democratic Party politicians, however, he is a symbol of a large and potent faction within the party, a round whom has gathered many of the men who worked with his two brothers in their efforts to capture and remake the Democratic Party.

As political decision time approaches, the stance he plans to take in party affairs, both at the convention and afterwards, is a matter of serious discussion and of much importance to the outcome of the November presidential election.

It is obvious that Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Vice President Hubert Humphrey would like to have his support in their own drives for the presidential nomination. There has been much talk, and some maneuvering, on the part of their lieutenants to attract Kennedy to their camps, and inevitably he is being mentioned with increasing frequency as a vice presidential running mate for either.

From the standpoint of ideologies, Kennedy would be of greater help to Humphrey than to McCarthy in the matter of wooing back to the Democrats votes of dissident groups — younger people, the anti-Vietnam war factions, and the intellectuals. Thus Kennedy, as a vice presidential running mate, is heard more often from Humphrey supporters than from McCarthy men.

The men around Kennedy are not agreed as to the course he should follow in politics this year. Some of them believe he should sit out 1968, supporting whomever is the Democratic presidential nominee as a matter of party loyalty, to be repaid in 1972 or 1976.

In any event, Kennedy is not expected to take a stand prior to the convention.

Then his lack of height caused the same trouble in collegiate ranks — he was too small to play for the big name colleges. Finally Holy Cross College in Worcester, Mass., offered him a scholarship.

In an important game against Loyola of Chicago in his junior year, he won the game with a left-handed hook shot, but the unusual part of the win was the debut of Cousy's famous behind-the-back dribble. It became his trademark and the most imitated maneuver in basketball.

After leading Holy Cross to the NCAA championship in 1950, Cousy joined the Boston Celtics and, again, he made the team and his original flair brought out the fans to see him work his magic on the court.

From 1950 until 1963, when he retired, the Celtics won seven division crowns and six league titles. He was the game's greatest play-maker and one of its greatest stars. After he retired from the Celtics, Cousy became coach at Boston College. Today, at 40, his name is synonymous with the game.

DR. COLEMAN

... And Speaking Of Your Health

My husband and I are at the age of sixty-two and feel that we now can indulge ourselves in travel since our children have grown and married. Neither of us have been to any foreign country. We find that we are somewhat afraid of the possibility of being sick in a foreign land even though we at the present time are in perfect health. What recommendations do you have that will allay our fears?

Mr. and Mrs. G.B.K., North Carolina

Dear Mr. and Mrs. K.: It is not unusual for people to be concerned about their health in foreign lands. Their dependence on their own personal physician gives them a tremendous sense of security. Years ago, travel and communication took so long that travelers armed themselves with all sorts of medical pills, drugs, and devices for fear that none of them would be obtainable in a foreign country. This is not true.

Today, six to eight hours is all that is necessary to return a person to his own community if his real concern about health interferes with the pleasure of his holiday.

A complete physical examination, followed by specific instructions before the trip, would give you an added feeling of health security. If there are any unusual medical conditions, a letter outlining the problem, the nature of the treatment and the dosage of the drug is of special importance if consultation with a doctor is necessary while traveling.

The United States government makes it mandatory that a smallpox revaccination be done every three years before reentry from any foreign land. Local Boards of Health in every community can make specific suggestions about the need for typhoid, cholera and yellow fever inoculations if travel will take you to sub-tropical climates, or Asiatic countries.

The American Medical Association has prepared a medication which can be worn around the wrist, the neck, or the ankle. On it is engraved any chronic condition that a person may have such as diabetes, epilepsy, allergy, or drug-sensitivity. This will immediately alert a doctor should any emergency arise. On it should also be included the name, the area code and the telephone number of your own doctor, so that within minutes, a medical telephone consultation can take place.

An extra pair of eyeglasses and a prescription for the lens in sures continued "sightseeing."

The problem of drinking water is not complicated. In most cities in Western Europe the water is purified and safe. Drinking bottled water and washing the peel of fresh fruits is an excellent precaution. Milk should only be drunk if it has been pasteurized.

Let us suppose that there is a need for a physician. How do you go about finding one in a strange country? There is always the recommendation made by the hall porter. This I would not advise.

A safe rule is to call the administrator of a local hospital and ask for the name of the chief of the department. If he is not available or cannot see you, you can be certain that the doctor he recommends will be a highly qualified one in all specialties.

There really is no reason why a happy holiday abroad or in distant parts of the United States should be affected by any unnecessary concern or anxieties. With simple precautions, the chances of becoming ill are no greater than they are if you stayed within the confines of your own home. Have a good trip and drop me a card.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH — Boric acid and boric acid powder are exceedingly dangerous when used to clean infant's diapers. Boric acid has no safe use in the home. There are better substitutes.

Contract Bridge

You are the dealer both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with the following five hands?

1. ♠ A K Q J 10 ♣ A 5 ♢ J 4 ♠ A K Q J 10 ♣ A 5 ♢ J 4
2. ♠ A K Q J 10 ♣ A 5 ♢ J 4 ♠ A K Q J 10 ♣ A 5 ♢ J 4

5. ♠ A K Q J 10 ♣ A 5 ♢ J 4 ♠ A K Q J 10 ♣ A 5 ♢ J 4

1. One spade. This follows the general rule of bidding the longer suit first. There is no good reason to vary from the rule just because the hearts are better in quality. The length of the suit is the determining factor. The hearts can be shown later if the opportunity arises.

It would be wrong to open with a notrump, though it is true you have 18 high-card points and balanced distribution. The weakness in the minor suits, as well as the promise of a major suit game, militate against an opening notrump bid.

2. One club. Here, also, the longer suit is bid first. The club opening makes it possible to bid the spades secondarily and obtain the advantage of identifying them as only four cards in length. This precise information will often enable partner to steer the hand to the best contract.

3. One heart. An exception is made in this case by opening with a heart even though the diamonds are longer. The chief reason for this is that we are dealing with suits of 6-5 length rather than 5-4 length. When the high-card content of a hand is close to minimum, it is better to start with the higher-ranking suit even though it is the shorter one.

This is especially true when one suit is a major and the other is a minor. Since it is generally easier to make a major-suit game than a minor-suit game, the initial effort is directed to the major suit.

Change the spade five to the ace, thus adding 4 high-card points to the hand, and it becomes proper to bid one diamond.

4. Pass. There is simply no adequate bid available. To open with a spade and then be faced with the responsibility of finding a proper rebid over partner's forcing response of two clubs, diamonds or hearts is begging for serious trouble. You could not possibly find a rebid that would express your values correctly. A pass is therefore the best course of action.

5. One diamond. Hands containing 14 high-card points are mandatory opening bids. This rigid rule overrides the natural reluctance to open the bidding with a suit headed by the eight. There is no good reason to bid the three-card club suit, and there is even less reason to open with a notrump, which would show 16 to 18 high-card points.

A seldom quoted episode concerning Will Rogers took place in 1930, when Coolidge Dam had been completed in Arizona. Will Rogers was a unanimous choice for master of the dedication ceremonies. It hadn't rained in those parts for a month of Sundays and as Rogers gazed over the sea of grass and weeds where San Carlos Lake was supposed to be filling up, he chuckled, "If that was my lake, I'd muck it!"

At considerable sacrifice, a New Haven couple raised the cash to put their somewhat slow-witted son through an intensive speed-reading course. It achieved results, too. The boy learned to read very much faster. The mother was forced to admit, however, that one thing was left out of the course. They never taught the boy to turn the pages fast enough.

LAKESHORE'S MILLAGE REQUEST EXPLAINED

$1 Million Duplex Housing Approved

Benton Planners Meet

The Benton township planning commission last night recommended approval of the Homes for Berrien County Families, Inc., a $1 million duplex housing project.

The vote was a close 4 to 3. Final approval of the project must now be made by the board of trustees, which holds its next regular meeting Aug. 20.

The planning commission approved two motions last night, following a public hearing on the 121-unit project.

MOTIONS APPROVED

One is to rezone 21 acres at 1115 South Crystal avenue from single family to multiple dwelling, with the provision that the costs for installing water, sewage and drainage be paid by developers.

The other is to issue a special use permit to the developers to construct the multiple family dwellings on a maximum density of six units per acre, with the added provision of providing for future sales of the units, if desirable and feasible.

A third provision, however, could decide whether the project is built in Benton township at all, if the board of trustees displays the same outlook as the planning commission.

Included in the planning commission's recommendations was a provision that Benton township residents be given preference for placement in the housing.

EXPLAINS RULES

Atty. Carroll V. Williams, representing Homes for Berrien County Families, Inc., said federal housing regulations prohibit geographical preference but the developers would cooperate with the request as far as possible.

Homes for Berrien County Families, Inc., is a corporation formed by the Berrien County Council of Churches.

Another objection raised by commissioners last night, was leasing of the units, rather than purchase by the occupants.

An answer which may have changed the minds of some of the commissioners was given by Mrs. William Ohmann, who has been working with the Homes for Berrien Counties Families, Inc.

MIDDLE INCOME

The duplex project is proposed for middle income families who have not established a good enough credit rating to purchase their own home, she said. The project is for families with incomes from $4,800 to $10,000.

Many families in the lower-income public housing projects have upgraded themselves with better salaries, but they have nowhere to go, she said. The duplex would be a stepping stone between public housing and owning one's own home, she said.

No one present for the public hearing was able to provide an answer to how many families in public housing were ready to move to better housing, but the general consensus was "quite a few."

Mrs. Ohmann described the housing project presented by the Homes for Berrien County Families, Inc., as the housing project for the "forgotten 20 per cent middle class."

The project is needed to fulfill the needs of a different class of people, she said, in comparison with two other projects under construction in Benton township. The others are a cooperative on North Shore drive and an elderly housing project near Fairplain Plaza.

WHY IN BENTON?

Members of the planning commission wanted to know why the developers decided to build in Benton township.

Atty. Williams said the Homes for Berrien Counties, Inc., plans to build elsewhere in the future, but they were unable to build in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph at the present, because they had no "working programs," he said.

Urban Renewal has cleared land in both cities, he said, but neither has allotted for residential area replacement.

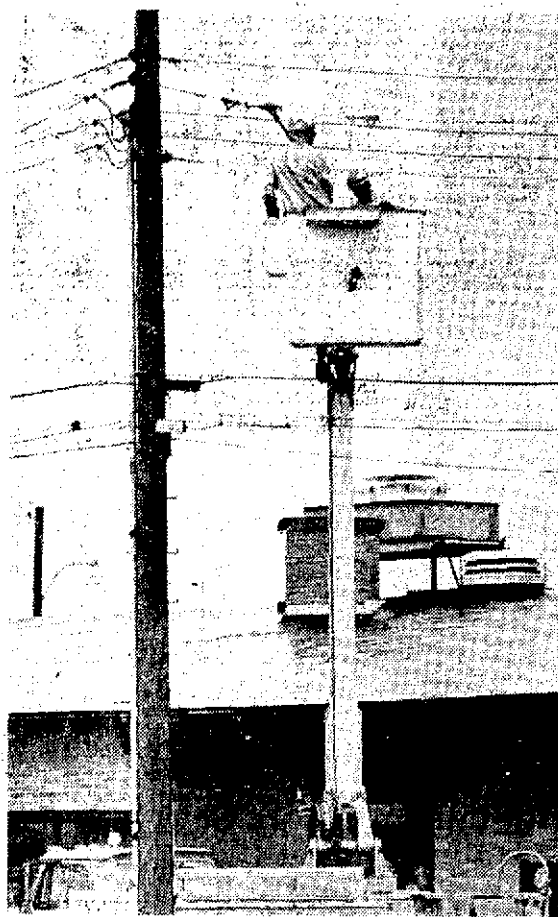

Mrs. Ohmann, a member of the Benton Harbor Urban Renewal staff, added that projects in the centers of the Twin Cities are best for elderly housing projects, not for middle-income families with children that need plenty of space in which to play.

Oliver Rector, a member of the planning commission and the Benton Harbor school board, mentioned that an additional 300 children in such a project would require another 12-room school.

"With or without your guidance," Atty. Williams said, "there is going to be increased growth and children in this township."

"We believe there is a serious, a tragic, lack of housing in the entire community," he said.

Election Scheduled On Monday

Austerity Plan Will Result If Tax Is Defeated

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two articles on the millage election coming up next Monday in the Lakeshore school district.

A special committee of citizens in the Lakeshore school district has issued some facts and information in connection with the upcoming millage vote.

The Citizens for Quality Education were organized in June to promote passage of a six mill tax levy. Voters in the district will go to the polls on Monday to cast ballots on a proposal for six additional mills for operational monies for the district.

The issue has been defeated twice in the past.

The committee, which is chaired by Tom McGrath, points out some of the problem areas caused by a lack of sufficient money. There is an elementary school which has a poor heating system and a leaky roof. The teachers and students are working with limited learning tools and supplies. There are overcrowded classrooms. Quality teachers are hard to retain or contract.

SECOND LARGEST

The committee says many residents do not realize that Lakeshore is the second largest school district in Berrien county with a valuation of 10 million dollars employing 217 people (135 teachers) with a total budget for 1968-69 of $1,907,000

PROMOTED: William Unatits, of 1216 Sheridan road, St. Joseph, was promoted to the position of vicar general of the Whirlpool division of La Porte division. Unatits, who is married and has three children, was supervisor of facility engineering at Whirlpool's St. Joseph division.

Ex-Local Priests Win High Posts

Monsignor Mehm New Vicar General Of Lansing Diocese

Three priests who formerly served in parishes in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, have been appointed to higher positions in the Roman Catholic Diocese of Lansing according to an announcement by Bishop Alexander Zaleski.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter E. Mehm, chancellor of the diocese for the last 13 years, has been appointed to be vicar general for the diocese; the Rev. James A. Murray, vice chancellor for the last four years, has been named to succeed Msgr. Mehm as chancellor; and the Rev. James S. Sullivan was appointed to succeed Father Murray.

Msgr. Mehm, 48, was ordained a priest in 1946. He served as assistant pastor of St. Joseph Catholic church and director of athletics from 1946 until 1950. He was then appointed to the chancery office in Lansing.

Father Murray, 36, is probably one of the youngest chancellors in the nation, according to Bishop Zaleski. A native of Jackson, Father Murray was ordained in 1958 and served as assistant pastor of St. Joseph Catholic until 1961 when he was transferred to St. Mary Cathedral, Lansing.

SERVED IN BH

Father Sullivan was temporary assistant at St. John's Catholic church in Benton Harbor for a period of three months and he served in St. Joseph for a period of four years from 1961 until 1965 when he assumed duties as assistant pastor of Resurrection Catholic church in Lansing.

Bishop Zaleski also announced five new assignments in Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties.

The Rev. James M. Novak, associate pastor of St. John's church in Benton Harbor since June 1966 has been assigned this first pastorate at St. Ann church in Cassopolis. The Rev. Richard T. Currier, former pastor of St. Ann, has been appointed to a newly-created position of diocesan director of pastoral mission with residence at St. Mary Cathedral, Lansing.

Succeeding Father Novak will be the Rev. Howard D. Murray from St. Mary Cathedral, Lansing. Father Murray was born in Albion; ordained in 1967 and has served as associate pastor at the Lansing Cathedral.

The Rev. John E. Young, associate pastor of St. Joseph's church, St. Joseph, has been assigned his first pastorate at St. Peter church, Easton Rapids. Assigned to the St. Joseph parish is the Rev. David J. Boggs. Father Young, a native of St. Paul, Minn., was ordained in Lansing in 1957; served as associate pastor in Flint, and Kalamazoo and he has served the St. Joseph church since January, 1967.

Father Boggs was born in Jackson; ordained in Lansing in 1965; served as associate pastor at St. Michael, Flint, from 1965 until 1966, and at St. Philip, Battle Creek, until the present time.

PAW PAW PASTOR

Assigned to St. Mary Catholic church at Paw Paw, is the Rev. Robert T. Palmer, replacing the Rev. Joseph R. Robb who has been assigned pastor of Holy Rosary, Flint.

Water Supply Critical For New SJ School

Opening May Be Delayed

Opening may be 3-6 months (1 center)

Lack of a water contract in south St. Joseph suburbs has described yesterday as creating a critical situation for the opening of a new St. Joseph junior high school.

Representatives of five municipal units made no apparent progress at meeting yesterday except to learn that opening of the new junior high at Maiden lane and Lincoln avenue in Lincoln township could be delayed.

Lincoln township Supervisor

Harry Gast tried to rescue the situation by offering to call another meeting for representatives of St. Joseph city, Shoreham village, Stevensville, St. Joseph and Lincoln townships.

Gast said with a grin he had enough problems in Lincoln township but will attempt to convene a meeting sometime in the next two weeks because time is crucial.

TAKES SEVEN MONTHS

Roy Peterson, of Consoer Townsend & Associates engineering firm, said it will take about seven months, depending on the weather, to design, let bids and build the water line to the new junior high.

Dr. Dean K. Ray, president of the St. Joseph school board, said it appears the junior high will be completed early in January and could be opened for the second semester if water is available. The present junior high is described as overcrowded. Ground water has been ruled insufficient.

A 16-inch main is proposed to serve the new junior high and eventually become part of a loop extending to Stevensville, Lincoln township and the Hydraulics Division of Bendix. William Kelly, a state health department engineer, said his department would not approve anything smaller because it could not serve the area in the future.

At the meeting yesterday were Larry Hauch and Lowell Pepper of Shoreham; Gast of Lincoln township; St. Joseph City Commissioner C. A. Tobias, City Manager Leland L. Hill, Public Works Supt. Gerald Hepler of St. Joseph; William Kelley of the state health department; Peterson and Al Wilson of Consoer, Townsend, and Dr. George Bain of St. Joseph township.

IT'S NO USE

St. Joseph township Supervisor Orval Benson said last Monday that there was no use meeting until the city of St. Joseph announced its plans for rescinding a charter amendment limiting sale of water to 25 per cent of local use.

At the meeting last Monday the St. Joseph township board instructed Township Attorney John Crow to ask St. Joseph City Attorney Arthur G. Preston what its plans were for a charter revision election.

Dr. Bain said yesterday, however, he felt that a second order to Crow to get the suburban attorneys together to continue to work on the contract was more significant than the dispute over the charter limitation. Hill said election regulations would prohibit holding a special charter revision vote until late in the year. He did not anticipate any objection to the change.

Carle, who joined Dynac in 1962, received his B.S. degree in aeronautical engineering from Purdue university. He lives with his wife and their three children at 1620 Porres avenue in St. Joseph.

Bischoff joined Dynac as one of its first employees in 1959 after having spent seven years at Paramount Die Casting. Bischoff lives with his wife and their five children at 3441 Valley View in St. Joseph.

FOR LAKESHORE DRIVE Expanded Interchange Considered By State

The state highway department is still considering expanding the Lakeshore drive-194 junction into a full interchange, planning engineer E. A. Bollenbaum has written Tom McGrath, executive manager of the Lakeshore Chamber of Commerce.

Bollenbaum wrote: The transportation planning division is still very much considering this interchange and feels that a full interchange should be constructed at this location. The plans for the interchange have been rejected by the Bureau of Public Roads, on a 90-10 matching basis.

Bollenbaum also noted, however, that with certain stipulations the federal government would participate on a 50-50 matching basis. The highway department has been unable to schedule this project in the near future but the project is still being considered. But when it can be scheduled for construction cannot be determined, Bollenbaum wrote.

SMC BACKS LMC'S PROPOSAL ON VAN BUREN

'Negative Spirit'
In GOP RanksBy BILL HAMILTON
Paw Paw Bureau

DECATUR —The Democratic party is very happy that Richard Nixon is the Republican candidate for president, and even happier that a relative unknown, Governor Spiro Agnew, was selected as the vice-presidential nominee.

Sander "Sandy" Levin, state Democratic chairman, expressed those thoughts last night to about 180 party members from Van Buren, Cass, Berrien, and Allegan counties, who attended a barbecue at Ted Lapekas' place in Decatur.

Levin said he found it hard to believe that Nixon had actually won the nomination. He characterized the nomination as "another example of the negative spirit in the Republican party, typical of the stagnation" in that party.

"Nixon," said Levin, "is a man born of expediency. He is not the man this country needs to move ahead."

FIGHT COMING UP

Apparently anticipating a real fight at the Democratic convention to be held in two weeks in Chicago, Levin said the past three days of television coverage of the Republican convention has been "very dull" except for the comedy furnished when the platform was adopted.

Although their actions may indicate that the Democratic party is in ferment and that the party is divided on basic issues, Levin said that this merely indicates vitality in the Democratic ranks.

"This only proves we are trying to face these complex problems," he said. "We are

Trustees'

Identical4 Townships To
Berrien College,
Remainder To Cass

DOWAGIAC — Trustees of Southwestern Michigan college last night proposed to the State Board of Education that Van Buren county be allowed and encouraged to become part of the SMC district, except for four townships in the northwestern part of Van Buren county.

A resolution to that effect was seen as agreement with a similar recommendation submitted to the state board in July by the Lake Michigan college trustees.

The recommendations of both the SMC and LMC boards propose that Covert, South Haven, Geneva and Bangor townships of Van Buren County be encouraged to become part of the LMC district, and that all the remainder of the county go to the SMC district. Southwestern Michigan college already has two Van Buren townships, Keeler and Hamilton, within its boundaries.

Dr. Fred Mathews, SMC board president, said the resolution adopted by his board complemented the earlier action of the Berrien county trustees.

"Their analysis and our analysis of the problem are in full agreement," he stated.

STATE BOARD

The State Board of Education indicated sometime earlier that it will not sanction Van Buren county creating its own community college district. Recently, the new Kalamazoo Valley Community college district has asked the state to approve an election for the annexation of the Mattawan school district in Van Buren county to the Kalamazoo district.

Both the SMC and the LMC boards pointed out in their resolutions that annexations by both school districts and townships would leave "no man's lands" in Van Buren county.

The SMC board last night also named Dale A. Lyons to fill the board seat vacated by the recent resignation of Dan Brosnan.

NEW TRUSTEE

Lyons is a life-long resident of the college district and is president of several area firms, including, Columbia Homes, Inc. of Cassopolis; Allied Manufacturing and Mobile Home Co., Dowagiac and La Vent, Inc., a plumbing and vent firm, Dowagiac.

He also is vice-president of Lynn Manufacturing Co., Edwardsburg.

Dr. Mathews said, "Mr. Lyons has a keen interest in Southwestern Michigan college since the idea for the college was first advanced five years ago."

Lyons resides in Dowagiac, is married and the father of two sons, Larry, a student at SMC, and Don, a senior at Michigan State University.

TUITION HIKE

In other business, the board voted to increase the tuition rate for the 1968-69 school year to $11 per credit hour for students in the college district and $17 per semester hour for non-residents. This compares to $120 per semester for residents and $180 per semester for non-residents, which has been in effect since the college started.

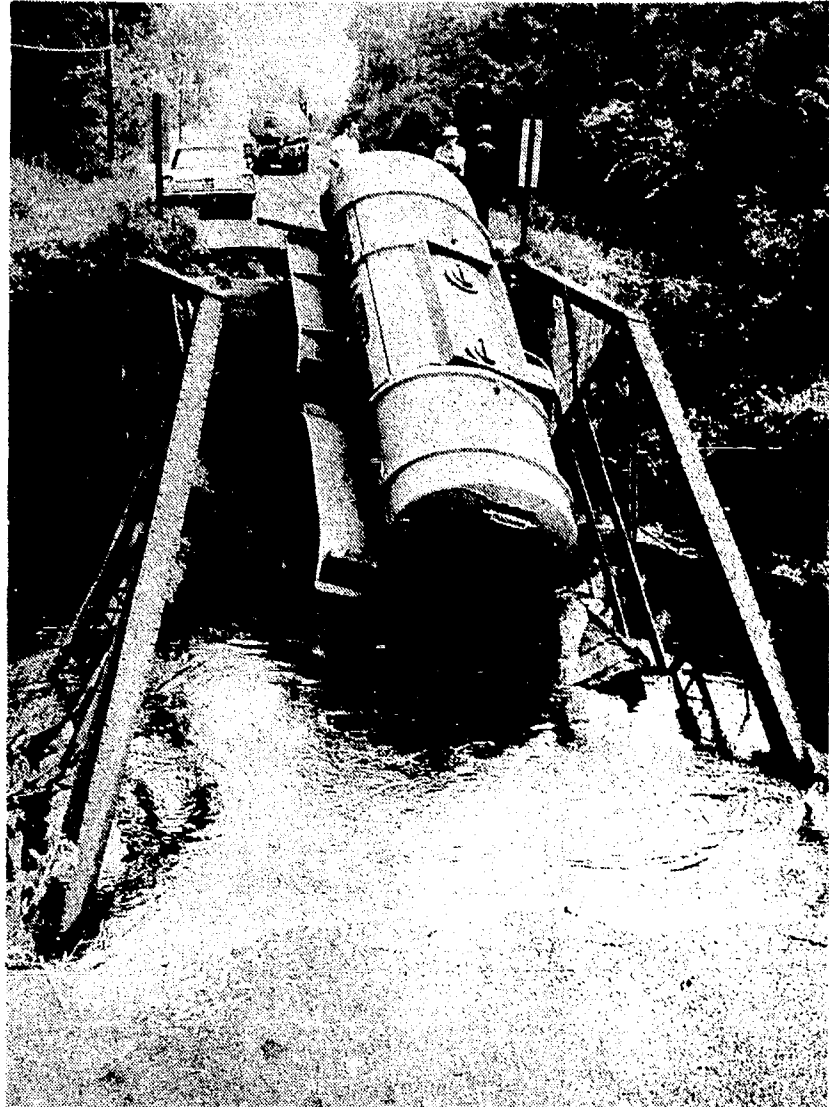

Laboratory fees which have averaged about $5 per course have been eliminated for the most part by the $1 per hour increase.

The increases were planned to provide more revenue and to distribute the tuition more evenly. Before, a student carrying 12 hours paid as much as a student carrying a 15-hour classload.

David Briegel, vice-president for business affairs, said 75 per cent of the increase will go for faculty salary raises, new faculty positions and other personnel salary hikes. The balance represents increases of goods and services.

New instructors appointed were Mrs. Donna Jean Hallein of Laramie, Wyo., English; Alvah W. Bearse, Niles, accounting; Mrs. Amy Carol Frazier, Berrien Springs, practical nursing program; James J. Judd of Spencerville, Ohio, social studies and physical education and wrestling coach; and James Joseph Tansey of Mishawaka, Ind., communications and career programs. He also will serve as basketball coach.

The board also announced a resolution to determine the total taxes required for the fiscal year which runs from July 1, 1968, to next June 30. These will

Weight Of Truck
Near Paw Paw

PAW PAW —A bridge across the Paw Paw river on county road 665, north of Paw Paw, collapsed yesterday morning under the weight of a double-bottom tanker truck, sending one tank trailer into the river.

The driver of the truck and a passenger were unharmed, as the tractor and first section of the rig cleared the bridge just as it fell.

Clayton Kanine, 51, of Riverdale, told state police he was just crossing the bridge when he heard it snapping and cracking. He said he put the gas pedal to the floor "and just hoped." When the second section of the double tanker fell into the river with the bridge, the automatic brake system set the air brakes on the front unit, but Kanine was able to clear the bridge before it crashed.

Kanine's passenger, Dean Storey, 23, route 2, Gobles, an employee of the county highway department, said the truck was spreading liquid chloride on a gravel section of the county road just north of the bridge. Most of the second tank has been emptied on the road, and the rig had gone to turn around when the collapse occurred.

Kanine said the weight of the first trailer, which was full, would run about 32,000 pounds gross.

The bridge was a single-lane, metal bridge, built in 1910. Located on a primary county road, the bridge had no weight reductions, according to county highway employees.

Mother Of 4 Murdered
Children Found Dead

DETROIT (AP)—The body of a 30-year-old mother was recovered from the Detroit River Thursday only hours after her husband came home from work to find the bodies of their four children in the basement along with a note from his missing wife. Police said they began dragging the river when a purse containing identification for Mrs. Rosalie Jones was found on the Belle Isle Bridge which spans the river from the mainland to an island park. Her body was located near Amherstburg, Ont.

Her husband, William, told police he discovered the bodies near a basement shower. Contents of the note were not disclosed. An autopsy Thursday determined that the children drowned and police termed the deaths as homicide.

The children—two boys and two girls—were identified as Daniel, 5, Joseph, 3, Jean, 2, and Catherine, 7 months. The couple had no other children.

Police are continuing their investigation and said the father is not being held in connection with the slayings.

HOBBY GROWS INTO BUSINESS: Mrs. Robert Tacy aboard Vanbistia, a pure bred Arabian stallion, and her son, Steve, 17, put finishing touches on a sign before the grand opening of the new saddle shop on Saturday and Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Tacy began showing horses as a hobby and won several state championships before deciding to board and train horses and give riding lessons on their property on M-140, four miles south of the I-94 Watervliet exit. The grand opening will be from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. this weekend with regular shops hours from 5 to 9 p.m. on weekdays. They have a 70 by 104 foot horse barn and a 50 by 104 foot indoor riding area. Robert Tacy is a barber in Watervliet and Mrs. Tacy is employed by Indiana and Michigan Electric company. The couple has another son, who helps in the family business, John, 14.

In Area Towns

Storm-driven winds from Lake Michigan lashed the Twin Cities and South Haven with gusts over 50 miles an hour Thursday afternoon while portions of Niles City and township were without power during an electrical storm.

Except for high winds and toppled tree limbs, the Twin Cities area escaped damage. But in Watervliet a 50-foot antenna atop the Patton Brothers appliance store fell. No one was injured.

In Niles, a fire of unknown origin in an underground transformer blacked-out the downtown area from 3:50 to 4:50 p.m. Thursday. Service to 600 telephones was out until an auxiliary diesel at the telephone company was switched on, and police and fire agencies went to emergency generators.

Five hundred homes in Niles township south of Niles were without power about one hour and 45 minutes Thursday from lightning, and a few isolated power losses were reported elsewhere in the county.

In Buchanan a car hit a telephone pole during the storm and knocked out phone service to about 100 customers there.

Wind also toppled electrical wires that touched off a fire in the Don Brenner home on Grand Boulevard, South Haven, about 3:15 p.m. Thursday. Firemen said the blaze was extinguished with minor damage.

Rain totaled 1 1/2 inches in Niles during the storm, but in the Twin Cities only slightly more than a quarter-inch fell.
